As doctors and staff in the eye medical field, you understand that quality of life can be drastically affected by vision loss. Your efforts to maintain, replenish or minimize the effects of vision loss are highly honorable. We would like to introduce a "Call to Action" for you and your staff that allows the patient to understand that their quality of life can be maintained even if vision loss is eminent. Your involvement and educational opportunity to introduce the organizations that are a part of the Coalition of Vision Resources (CVR) can help them relate past maximum medical improvement and regain the confidence and independence that they were afforded before vision loss.

Whether the patient is looking for orientation and mobility training, employment, social camaraderie or various counseling services, we are here to allow your legacy of assistance to live on into perpetuity. Finding and regaining the confidence and independence that has been lost through vision loss is what the CVR is about. We want to offer you a service that allows you and your staff to be the hero that that goes above and beyond the call of duty to help the person that is longing for direction and hope.
